

Dear sir / madam,

Australian oceans need continuing protection so that they remain sustainable for present and future generations to benefit from. This is important for recreational activities, as well as for the breeding of fish and other marine animals and plant species.

Thank you,

Karen Booth