

No government has ever taken this large an area out of conservation. This will have a devastating impact on the environment and could ultimately have a devastating impact on us as well. Marine protection must not ever, under any circumstance, be cut back.