

Dear Sir/madame,

The proposal by the Federal Government to cut our marine park would be yet another nail in the coffin for the Australian environment.

The NSW Government is suffering the same anti-environment attitude with massive changes to legislation that will see the demise of critical habitat, segmentation of wildlife corridors and the addition of species to the growing extinction list. Unfortunately, this attack on the environment in NSW all started when a plan was put in place to bury one of the top conservation agencies in the world, the NSW National Parks and Wildlife Service.

Is it just a coincidence that Sally Barnes, the current Director of the federal department for the environment now proposing these devastating plans for our marine environment was also the agency Director responsible for the demise of the NSW National Parks and Wildlife Service?

Yours faithfully
