

Dear Josh Frydenberg

Honestly, I'm not sure how far the Liberal Party is willing to go with its moves against the environment but there seems to be no limits.

There was a time when the party was very good on parks and protecting Australia's special natural areas. Now it seems you are all being told what to do by the ruthless big business bosses. As a past Liberal voter I now despair and am unsure who to vote for.

Please put in place more protection – not gut what little we have.
