

Dear Government,

have you totally lost your minds? You can't possibly think opening up marine parks and national parks to mining, multinationals and exploitation in general, will go unnoticed; and not in a good way. As one of millions already disenfranchised by the unaffordability of land in this country access to it's pristine sanctuaries is what makes life worthwhile. For Australia's sake do not stuff that up, lest we lose our sense of humour about the calamitous misdirection occurring in other parts of the world. And don't let the influence of money persuade you to join the madness.

Best Regards,

Stephen (Steve) Serio Esq.
