

To whom it may concern.

I have reviewed your various plans and, thoroughly laid out as they are, I cannot get past the fact that the scientific community strongly opposes your plans.

It seems that they agree that partial protection, or compromised protection will necessarily always be less than full protection.

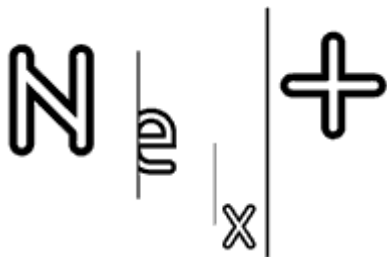

I have given much thought over time as to the governments considered opinion that they are above the best scientific advice. I would hope, that as a long time liberal voter (now wavering), you will, this time, listen to what the experts are saying. By this, I do not mean experts in oil drilling, or experts in fishing, but experts in marine biology and wildlife.

After all, that is what the sanctuaries are for.
