

Dear Minister Frydenburg

The state of our oceans is of utmost importance healthy waters will save sealife and the environment at large.
Protection is the key to ongoing supplies of fish and other marine life.
At a recent meeting, we were shown detailed maps of where these sanctuaries actually are.

I was stunned that much of the protected waters were actually far out or had little impact on human activity.

MORE protected marine sanctuaries are needed - not less.

You are making decisions that will have repercussions forever.

Use not just your wisdom, but the wisdom of experts.

Recreational fishers should not hold sway.

Professional fishers/harvesters of marine creatures cannot be allowed to over-fish areas.

Boats, ships and other water vehicles must make some sacrifices for the greater good of not just Australia's waters, but the World's ocean health.

Tourist businesses should not be allowed to make money at the cost of ocean health.

Ports and businesses affecting shorelines and waters must be responsible for its sustainable health. Accidents and oil-spills can reek havoc, as previously seen.

The Great Barrier Reef is being destroyed by those who seek to exploit it.
Think of the ocean's future, not just yours.
