

Dear Mr Frydenberg or appropriate underling,

I met you two years ago as the member for Kooyong as you presided over the Kooyong Student Prize, and it was a pleasure then to showcase the talents and enthusiasm of my students to you. The reason my students were selected for such a prestigious award was their pairing of academic strength with civic participation and sense of community. They strongly believed in protection of Australia's natural resources and regions for future generations. Please don't let them down.

Although we aren't directly related, we are both Jews and I appeal to you to remember that we have an obligation to Tikkun Olam, and you are uniquely and powerfully placed to make changes that can have real and lasting impact on marine lives, futures and economies.

Please do the right thing; the long term thing; the smart thing.

Many thanks,

Elinor Cozens
