

Dear Sirs

As a biologist, it concerns me greatly that there are intentions to reduce protected marine reserves. Our planet is struggling to accommodate an increasing human population and its consequent affects on all forms of life. Reducing protected marine reserves is a foolish legacy for this and future generations of humans and all marine life.

Sincerely

Dr Eric Cother

Orange, NSW