

We need to protect the oceans because that is where all life started and provides the planet with life. By not protecting the oceans we are slowly destroying the planet, and all life.