

Dear idiots,

What is actually wrong with the lot of you?

You literally are the most narrow minded humans this earth has ever faced. What's worse is your actions, in the age you will live in, have detrimental affects far worse than any other generation before you because of the modernised world we live in.

Yet, yet! You do nothing. Can you bloody understand that you getting into office at the election is not as important as saving our marine life? For gods sake, if you want a vote that bad, I'll give you mine for the rest of my life if it will mean you will actually think logically and think objectively about protecting our world.

I wish, I really wish, that whenever the day comes in the future, when your great grandchildren - it might be your actual grandchildren at this rare - stare planetary death in the face, that whatever god forsaken place you're at, you can witness the damage you did to our world.

I'm glad to say you're a disgrace to the human race. Every other species on the planet has more respect for their habitat than you do; monkeys, cats, pigs, snakes, even rats.

Do you want to know the one positive that still looms though? Even after all your idiocracy? Time. Believe it or not, it's not too late to change. But will you have the sense of mind to change?

I bloody hope so.

From a human, desperately in search of what others that call themselves human.

Sigh.

Sent from my iPhone on the go, apols for the brevity and any errors/typos. Neil