

Dear important government people

Why do you persist in decimating the little bit of environmental protection we have in place in Australia? Don't you realise that if we are to have any hope of a diverse seafood industry in the future we need to have marine sanctuaries now? Oh yeah, that's right, you are all in bed with the offshore petroleum mining mob as well as the coal industry. I hope you, like me, don't have children because I am not sure how they will be able to explain your out of control greed and selfishness to future generations.

Congratulations, you are a contender in the Rampant Stupidity stakes – winner take all (that is, clean water, clean food, clean air, etc – you get the drift, it will be all gone ☹)

Don't bother replying. Oh, you weren't going to anyway. You already have me pegged as a trouble making greenie. Sadly, I am just a little guy, with a very small business, trying to earn a decent living, and the bloody government is getting in the way. And telling me it is more important for others (mining companies, big banks, agribusinesses, etc) to make a motza than for me to pay my mortgage and put some away for my future. Silly me, eh?

Kind regards

Meredith
