

Sorry about the late response.

I am disappointed and upset about the cutbacks to conserved area of ocean intended upon by the Australian government. I can think of no reason to do such a thing other than to generate revenue, which is a short-sighted, unscientific idea and should not even have been given the courtesy of being heard. Protecting the planet and wildlife is ever more important than making the rich richer.

The very concept is disgusting and disgraceful to me, a student studying chemical, pharmaceutical and biological sciences.

Regards,
Gareth King