

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to you with regards to the Australian Government's plan to decrease the area of protected ocean around Australia. As a young adult and university student, I have not yet had the opportunity to experience many of the natural wonders that Australia has to offer, but hope that one day I will be able to. These potential cuts threaten priceless resources like Shark and Vema Reefs and are an affront to all those who value nature and Australia's outdoors. I sincerely hope that the Government reconsiders this proposal and continues to protect these irreplaceable areas.

Regards,
Declan Moylan