

Dear Minister Frydenberg

I am writing to express my disappointment in the proposal to cut back the area being protected in Marine Parks. For many years Australia has prided itself on being at the forefront of environmental protection and have marketed this to the world to encourage tourists. Marine Parks are just as important as land based National Parks to the environment and to the attraction of tourists to this country and the dollars they contribute to the local communities.

Please, please, please rethink the cutting back of the Marine Protected Areas before it is too late.

Regards,
