

The proposed changes to protecting our oceans does not make economical, environmental or ethical sense. In these current climatic changes, withdrawing our support from Australia's oceans as a member of the voting public causes grave concerns for a sustainable future for the Australian economy, as we believe these actions will be detrimental to the future of our special & valuable commodity - the oceans & marine life of Australia

Hugh Luetchford & Clare Newton

Sent from my iPhone