

Now more than ever our ocean residents need protection, To eliminate these sanctuaries is to say goodbye to a health economic future too. Fisheries will suffer but even more importantly our marine tourism. Our reefs attract tourists from all around the world. They are SO special.

Have you had a chat to anyone who has worked on a fishing trawler? I did just last week and they didn't last long there, they saw the writing on the wall. There are no where near as much fish as there used to be and our marine sanctuaries are doing some very important protection. I hope you are able to see this.

Kind regards,
Elizabeth Palmer