

There are none so blind as those who will not see.

The continuing - indeed - increasing stresses to which we now subject the ocean's reefs is a matter of great concern. The stability of the world's ecosystem comes under increasing stress as we reduce the monitoring and protection of reef areas in our 'region'.

I urge the government to urgently review the present proposals.

Professor Patrick Troy AO