

To whom it may concern (which includes all Australians and peoples of the world),

We, Australia, are known throughout the world, as 'the lucky country'. It seems to not be so anymore, the way things are going for our 'lucky country'. There is unhappiness and discontent everywhere, as you, our government, who is supposed to be for the people, keep making decisions that are not for the people. The decision to change the care of our most wonderful natural asset, the Great Barrier Reef, is something Australians, all Australians will be angry and disheartened about.

We, and I mean you, our government, need to be strong and assertive and remember why you are in power, to look after, and care for your fellow Australians, and what is important to them. Our Great Barrier Reef is one of those things, that you are custodians for.

Please, I beg of you stand strong on this, do not minimise the care of our Great Barrier Reef.

Dianne Ray