

Dear Sir/Madam,

Oceans are vitally important for the future of our planet. We should be increasing conservation measures, not repealing the measures that are currently in place. Fish stocks need to be protected and we should ensure that fishing methods pose no danger to other marine life. In addition, the reefs are not only important for tourism but also for biodiversity. I would urge you not to pass this retrograde legislation but to consider the damaging effects on our environment for future generations.

Yours faithfully, Janice Rodway
