

Dear Sir /Madam,

I am shocked to hear that protections so recently set in place for key areas in our oceans are to be slashed.

If these protections were deemed sensible and necessary when enacted I fail to see the logic of removing them. I can only assume vested interests that wish to exploit them have the ear of this Government.

Australia would be the only country in the world to begin scaling back environmental protection and we will become an international pariah.

I urge everyone involved to reject these new plans and keep the current protections as they are.

Yours sincerely

GUY TROUGHTON
www.guytroughton.com