

To the Liberal Government,

I beg you, on behalf of all ocean-dwelling creatures, all environmental groups around the world, and all parents who want their children to have a beautiful world to live in, to stop interfering with the marine sanctuaries and laws we already have in place.

You are making Australia the laughing stock of the whole world, not only because of this, the latest in a litany of bad environmental ideas.

It's time to square your shoulders against companies, investors or other politicians, whatever it is that is making you make these choices. Wake up to the needs of this planet, and show some guts.

Bev Landy