

Dear Sir/ Madam

To make a decision in the affirmative regarding cutting back on marine protection zones is unconscionable, reckless and just plain greedy. We are at a tipping point here and won't be able to go back to even sustainable. The fishing industries are out there 24 / 7 ... 365 days per year trawling and returning to mother ships to dump their respective loads (along with all the other marine life collateral that dies in the process). What? You think the supply is inexhaustible? Get some common sense! This is not an inexhaustible commodity! Our precious oceans are at great risk. You suits just can't see below the surface. Too much money pressure from Big Biz hey!

Bill Walton

---

This message is intended for the addressee(s) named and may contain confidential information. If you are not the intended recipient, please delete the message and any attachments and notify the sender. Views expressed in this message are those of the individual sender, and are not necessarily the views of NSW Health or any of its entities.