

Take take take that is what people keep doing. We must protect our oceans and keep what we already protect not lessen the protection area. All the government seems to be doing is making sure big companies make money. There is too much by catch with trawling so that must not happen, so many unnecessary deaths and then thrown away. If anything we should be protecting more not less.