

Our pm Malcom needs to increase the protection zones not wrecking them for business interests. The grand child he was watching the football with won't know what a pristine reef is in Australia and will have his grandfather to blame.

The protected zones were put there in place for an environmental reason and should never be messed with.

Cheers Kim