

It has been brought to my attention that you are preparing to dramatically reduce the area of our oceans currently protected in Marine parks. This is simply madness. Our oceans are under incredible pressure on many different fronts and any reduction in protection is misguided and unforgivable. On what scientific basis can this action be justified. Please explain why these changes to legislation are required. Looking forward to your reply.

Regards

Murray Goodridge