

Why ,why why are you being so destructive. The oceans are part of our life support ,we need those areas of conservation,for the growth and development of fish . So much of the world is being destroyed ,please leave these conservation zones in place . To risk what is left to be drilled by mining companies where so many mistakes are made would be very negligent.

You have a duty of care to the people of Australia to protect these precious ares of the coastline which surround Australia. Think of future generations not just this one.

Yours sincerely Gillian Trahair
