

To all who have influence in such matters,

I'm sure that I learned at school that, right at the bottom of the food chain, supporting all life, was plankton. And more broadly, a healthy ocean. Yet I'm scared; it seems that there's currently a bit of momentum towards destroying instead of protecting these valuable (environmentally and financially) resources that keep us alive.

I have young children. They are dear dear people. Yet I do get scared when I hear of things like the undoing of current sanctuaries about what the future will hold for them. I hope hope hope that they too can have a life full of beauty and fortune such as I have. And i want to try to make this possible for them - indeed, there is no love like a mother's love, I discover now that I am one. Please. For all the young people, for all the people who care about what the world will be like in the coming years, and for nature itself, please do not destroy. Please, do protect this world. It is absolutely critical.

You can make the world better and safer. And, as our representatives, I think you have a responsibility to do so.

Many thanks,

Kate Walsh
