

Dear sir/madam

I am totally against and object in the strongest terms to any reduction in Australia's marine reserves. This is totally unscientific and bias, lacks scientific credibility and puts Australia as the only country in the world to reduce and go backwards in marine reserve protection. It's the same old flat earth policy of the LNP government that supports coal over renewables, does not support a clean energy target and under Abbott tried to reduce the world heritage areas in tassy. Absolutely unacceptable and must be rejected. Marine reserves are essential for a sustainable ocean and a healthy fishing industry, this proposal will set Australia back 50 years. It is actually so predictable under this government that this be proposed, just outrageous redneckism at its worst.

Totally rejected.

Yours
