

What is going on? The ocean and coastal seas were protected but now your government has decided that they are less important than recreational and commercial interests. If this is done then there is less area for the animals to recuperate from the fishing and extraction of resources that occurring now. By the way a lot of the fish is being sent overseas anyway, so what is the long term benefit for Australia

Sent from my iPhone