

This Government's continuous short-term view of the world, exemplified by proposed winding back of ocean protections, is extremely frustrating. The Ratbag Right and corporate political donations (open bribes) are making a mockery of Democracy in this country.

Luckily, and no thanks to some who would like to silence the free press, we in this country still have the luxury of one person, one vote.

You want my vote Liberal Party? Start acting in the interests of the nation, not your corporate sponsors/bosses.

There's an election looming, so think about it. Votes or dollars? You're going to have to lift your game for my vote.

Start working for the long-term good of the nation, not short-term advantage for corporations at the expense of long-term environmental viability.

The choice is yours, ladies and gentlemen, responsible government for the nation, or short-term (very short-term) advantage for your corporate bosses.

Neil Biggar

Angry voter.